

THE STATE CONVENTION

LADIES' DAY.

Youth and Beauty Grace the Grand Stand at the Track.

Lyourgus Wins the First Race by a Neck.

The Shower Interferes to Some Extent with the Attendance—The Grounds Well Filled, However, by Throngs of People—Sunshine and Clouds Alternate—The Events of the Day—Gossip at the Track.

RALEIGH, BEAUTY, culture and everything else combined to make a magnificent picture of the grand stand at the race course yesterday. St. Louis can congratulate herself not only on having the finest racing grounds in the country, but she can also congratulate herself on having had the greatest race of the present decade, and also of having had the largest crowd ever assembled on the race track in the West or South, at least twenty-five thousand people being on the grounds of the St. Louis Fair Association to witness the great Eclipse Stakes, in which the great racing celebrities, Freehand and Miss Woodford, were expected to come together. The king, however, was too lame to race and had to be retired, while the queen met in contest for the stake the California crack Volante and Alta and Missouri's pet mare, Modesty, who however, was not up to her racing form and failed to get a place in the race, which was won by Miss Woodford, without having been touched by whip or steel, in the handsome time of 2:35, the best in the world.

John A. Scudder wanted to increase the price of round-trip to New Orleans after the Eclipse was over. Capt. Thorngren said the wreck of the press-room of the Eclipse was the wreck of the Grand Republic. Frank K. Ryan was looking for a shot-gun to kill the boy who sold tips at the reduced rate of 25 cents a piece. Col. Jim Butler said the animals were well drilled, but looked better in dress parade than in the field. Dr. Ohmann-Dummett looked around for a horse with a French name, and not finding any refused to bet. Counselman Haines hobbled with every body everywhere, and looked as spry as a Hyder Ali yearling. Crittenden McKinlay said he always thought racing was worse and never more than when Estrella came in first.

On the Road. Valley Ryburn adjusted his eye-glasses two or three times and felt slightly nervous, but came out all right. Frank Ritchie stowed himself away up in the Grand Stand and paid a cent to see anything on the programme. Col. Wm. Bull said the people in the refreshment room would not have been so cavalierly, they were such heavy chargers. Charley Powell drew a long breath when Miss Woodford came under the wire, and said he was glad to see her. Col. J. G. Prather murmured that we were getting by degrees, and in a few more years we would be as far as we wanted.

Jim Farrar felt his pocket vainly for a roll that long since had been donated the book-maker's fund and although New York laws were wholesome after all. J. H. Tiernan looked long and lovingly at Miss Woodford as she flew down the home stretch and he knew all about it before hand. Will Stickney's tip, as usual, ended in smoke. J. M. Blair of Blairtown, N. Y., one of the wealthiest horse-owners in the West, expressed a high opinion of Western enterprise in the matter of racing. Mr. Blair will be at the track every day.

Wednesday's Programme. First Race—Purse $400, $50 to second, for all ages; 2-year-olds to carry 85 pounds; 3-year-olds, 100 pounds; 4-year-olds, 110 pounds; 5 and upwards, 125 pounds; sex allowances. Three-quarters of a mile. Second Race—Purse $400, $100 to second; horses that have not run in 1885 allowed, if 3 years old, 10 pounds; if 4, 15 pounds; if 5 and upwards, 20 pounds; maidens allowed, 30 pounds. One mile. Third Race—A handicap sweepstakes for 2-year-olds and upwards, $50 each, half forfeit, or only $10 declared; weights to be made on or before April 1, 1886, (all declarations void unless accompanied by the money). With $500 added, $100 to be paid to the winner after the appearance of the weights of any race of the value of $1,000, 5 lbs.; of $1,000, 7 lbs.; of $2,000, 10 lbs.; of $3,000, 13 lbs.; of $4,000, 16 lbs.; MR. BLAINE is taking unnecessary pains to capture the Democrats of Maine. This zealous effort will keep the public from forgetting that there are any Democrats at that corner of the country.

When the oleomargarine bill reached the Senate, there was much uncertainty as to the proper committee to which it should be referred. After a short debate it was referred to the Committee on Agriculture, although it would have been doubtless more appropriate to refer it to the Committee on Manufactures, or the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

It is announced that SAM JONES is to undertake the conversion of the Concord School of Philosophy. SAM has the advantage of the Concord Philosophers in knowing what he is after, and in having a plan for getting it; at least, the friends of JONES make this claim. The Concord Philosopher finds his chief delight in his inability to discover what he wants, and in his ignorance as to the best means of attaining it.

THE Rhode Island prohibitionists are furious over the appointment of CHARLES R. BRAYTON as Chief of the State Police established by the new constabulary law.
BRAYTON is regarded as a tool in the hands of the liquor men, and the duties of his new office relate to the enforcement of the recent prohibitory constitutional amendment.
The situation seems to justify a little pyrotechnic wrath on the part of the Prohibitionists.

It is probable that the New Jersey Republicans will run WILLIAM WALTER PHILIPS for Governor, which would make it the duty of the Democrats to defeat him, although they retain a grateful recollection of his patriotic services in helping to elect CLEVELAND. Many New Jersey people think that PHILIPS should be honored above BURCHARD for his unintentional influence in this direction.

"ANY good republican broom," says the New York Tribune, "would clean out the muddy feet now in possession of the Government." It is not clear what is meant by the statement that the Government is in possession of "muddy feet," but if such a state of affairs actually exists, it would do no good to try to sweep the Government clean with a muddy broom, as was attempted by the Republican party in 1884.

If the Gladstone ministry should resign and a Tory ministry should undertake the management of British affairs, they would most probably undertake the passage of a Home Rule bill similar in scope and substance to the one which the Tories have just defeated because it emanated from a Liberal minister. The consideration of such a probability may interfere with an immediate dissolution of Parliament.

MR. STEVE ELKINS will meet President CLEVELAND to-day for the first time, and will doubtless be convinced before the interview ends that he waved his torch in the wrong procession in 1884; and it is possible that he will go to bed to-night with the germ of wumpumpry lurking in his system. It is gratifying to find a reform President willing and ready to enlighten and elevate his benighted antago-nists with the subtle witchery of personal contact.

Our memorial anniversary elicits many correlative estimates of the abilities of the generals who fought through the civil war; though it is still too soon to classify the ablest commanders according to a scale of comparative merit. An eminent European authority declares that "ROBERT E. LEE and STONEWALL JACKSON are the only heaven-born military geniuses ever known to man." The military operations and methods of JACKSON were distinguished by sharp peculiarities from those of all the other generals who fought their way to distinction, and seemed to forcibly illustrate the difference between military genius and military talent.

THE N. P. LAND GRANT.
A bill, favorably reported and now pending in the House, declares forfeited all of the Northern Pacific land grant apportioning to such parts of the railroad as were not completed according to the terms of the grant. This bill rests upon the following provision of the act granting the land:

That each and every grant, right, and privilege herein is so made and given to and accepted by the said Northern Pacific Railroad Company upon and subject to the following conditions—namely: (1) That said company shall commence the work on said road within two years from the approval of this act by the President; (2) shall complete not less than fifty miles per year, and (3) shall construct, equip, furnish and complete the whole road by the 4th of July, 1876.

A three years' extension of the time was afterwards sanctioned by Congress, and in 1879 the road was completed as far west as the Missouri river within the extended time. Between the river and the Pacific coast terminus there are 30,000,000 acres claimed by the company along its line, on the ground that the failure of Congress to declare the land forfeited was equivalent to an extension of the time by Congress, and that under decisions of the Supreme Court with reference to other land grants, this 30,000,000 acres has been as fully secured to the company by the subsequent completion of that part of the road as the land east of the river was by the completion of the eastern division within the time specified.

As lawyers differ on this point, and some contend that the provisions above quoted remove this case from the operation of the principle on which the Supreme Court decided a former land grant case, the question is whether Congress shall declare the land grant forfeited west of the river, or, by declaring only part of it forfeited, legally confirm all the rest.

This is obviously the reason why the Senate antagonizes the House bill with a bill declaring the forfeiture of only 3,000, 000 acres along a certain branch from Wadala to Portland, which the company is neither building nor preparing to build.
The Senators who oppose a declaration of forfeiture as to the rest of the 30,000,000 acres, take the ground that Congress now has no power to reclaim the land apportioning to any portion of the road that has been finished. If they are right, the Supreme Court will award the land to the company and the declaration of forfeiture will not be worth the paper it is written on. Why then should not Congress pass it and leave the question to the Supreme Court?

Both parties in their National and State platforms have demanded of Congress "the speedy forfeiture of all land grants which have lapsed by reason of non-compliance with the conditions of their grants." Testimony before Congress has shown that if this 30,000,000 acres be not forfeited, the company can now sell the entire grant for more than twice as much as the cost of the road.

STATE RELIGION.
In a speech in the House of Commons the other day Mr. T. P. O'CONNOR said there is not a single section of Catholics that would for one moment tolerate the establishment or endowment of their church as a State Church in Ireland. Why should they? It has remained the church of the Irish people for centuries, not only without State aid, but in spite of all that Government could do to outlaw, proscribe, persecute and crush it. The more the Catholics were disfranchised and the more their priests were hunted or placed under surveillance as public enemies, the more pathetic and devoted grew the loyalty of the emotional Irish to their church as the companion and comforter of their sorrows and their poverty. The State Church which they were forced to support took tithes of their substance, and got a pound of hatred with every penny of its wrung from the hard hand of peasants who voluntarily stunted themselves in food and clothing that they might give something to the suffering church of their fathers. The ban of an alien government and the entire dependence of the Catholic priesthood upon the charity of the poor and powerless, gave that priesthood in Ireland for generations a stronger hold upon the popular heart than they had anywhere else in the world, and they are probably wise enough to know that their hold would be weakened and loosened by transforming their church into a State Church, a tax gatherer, the dependent creature and servant of mere temporal power. The long struggle of the Irish people for the abolition of religious tests, and for civil and religious equality, has surely made a deep impression on their own minds unfavorable to Church and State union, and their own experience should have taught them that State support to a church, it is, therefore, easy to believe Mr. O'CONNOR's statement that home rule for Ireland does not mean a Catholic State Church nor any State action whatever against the religious liberty or equal rights of Irish Protestants.

MUCH was expected from the fine trac-track in the world, located within the city limits of St. Louis, but nothing was expected that was not realized yesterday.
Weather, races, track, attendance, management were all that could be wished, and St. Louis is the richer by a most valuable addition to the resources which contribute to make a great city. Certainly no other city places so pleasant a half-holiday within easy access of the people, and the record of yesterday shows that the people know how to respond to such management.

SOMEONE has taken the trouble to estimate the number of columns of matter about the Maxwell trial published in the several daily papers of the city; but it should be remembered that the matter printed in the POST-DISPATCH was the best sort of original news, while the recounts published in the morning papers were in the main replications from our columns. The Maxwell trial was another Eclipse race so far as the newspapers are concerned—the favorite came out ahead.

MR. GLADSTONE, in making the last appeal in behalf of his Home Rule bill stated in the Commons that it was his design to confer upon Ireland a real and practically independent management of her own affairs. "That is the right," he said, "which our opponents object to, and that is the thing we desire and hope and mean to do." The significant language here employed shows that the Premier looks beyond the immediate fate of his bill, and shows his confident expectation of a successful result when another appeal shall be made to the English constituencies. The speaker used the language of confidence when he stated that it was his intention to have the bill passed; but it is confidence that is fully justified by the signs of the times.

AN Abuse of Power.
From the New York World.

We regret that the Empire Protective Association has resorted to a general "tie-up" on the surface railroads of New York, Brooklyn and the suburbs, because we believe the policy is certain to inflict a serious injury on Labor Unions, which the White House has approved as a justifiable employment of the workingmen of the country when properly directed.
The strike on the Third Avenue Railroad two months ago was a mistake. It ought never to have been ordered. Its object was to force the company into the dismissal of some inefficient employees objectionable to the Knights of Labor. Public opinion condemned such a demand. When the association became convinced of this fact its wise course would have been to abandon the strike and order a return to work. The blunder was made of supposing that the dismissal of some inefficient employees would be a benefit to the organization, and render future strikes abortive. In fact, it would have been an element of strength instead of weakness, as it would have shown that the organization was ready to give way when wrong as it was prepared to fight when right.

The greatest injury that could be inflicted on any labor organization would be to convince the people that it is as ready to resort to extreme measures to force compliance with an unjust as with a just demand.
This "tie-up" is ill-advised and wrong, because the strike is a disruption of the business of the city, and the public opinion is already a complete failure. Because the principal sufferers are the people who labor for a living at other callings, especially the women, and who are seriously inconvenienced and injured by being delayed in reaching their places of employment. Because it forces out of work 10,000 men, at a loss of at least $4,000 a day, or $168,000 a week, to the cause of labor, which can never be recovered. Because it excites the ill-feeling of those who earnestly sympathize with labor and labor organizations in all their just efforts to better the condition of workmen in every calling. The tie-up is, therefore, a stupid blundering from the standpoint of the strikers' interests, because it pours money into the depleted treasury of the Third Avenue Railroad, which has suffered severely from the silent boycott, and better enables that corporation to continue its fight.

The Empire Protective Association imagines that the serious public inconvenience resulting from the stoppage of the street car service will dispose the people to insist upon the abandonment of the Third Avenue Company's position, it will, we think, find itself mistaken. Serious as the inconvenience may be, the people will not allow their sympathy with labor to tempt them to sanction injustice. And it is the madness of folly for a labor organization, however powerful, to antagonize popular sentiment.

Those who have ordered the tie-up assume a grave responsibility. During the Third Avenue strike they have shown a commendable desire to preserve the peace and obey the laws. They doubtless intend to still pursue such a course. But can they answer for the discretion and sobriety of 16,000 idle men? Do they realize the position in which they would be placed by a fatal collision between the police and the strikers which might precipitate preludes? Do they not know that the safety of labor is in keeping itself aloof from riots and riots? Besides, do they think it just to the city that the services of the police should be withdrawn from other important duties to watch those wholly unnecessary troubles?

THE WORK is the true friend of labor—the truer because prepared at all times to point out its mistakes. It is the effective enemy of the encroachments and oppressive acts of corporations—the more effective because ready to maintain all the just rights of capital. We prove our friendship for labor when we take the Empire Protective Association that the "tie-up" it has ordered is an injustice to the people of New York and a serious injury to the cause of labor. It will excite popular indignation against the Association, and we fear it will check that general and generous sympathy which has stood by labor in its past struggles, and which will endeavor to condition and enforce its rights.

THE Ten Best Horses of the Century.
From the Sportsman.
Lord Falkland gives it as his opinion that the ten best horses of the century have been the Pennsylvania, Flying Dutchman, Priam, West Australian, Flying Dutchman, Surplice, Har-away, Touchstone, Cremorne, Gladstone, Matthew Dawson thinks the ten best were Touchstone, Flying Dutchman, Voltigeur, Stockwell, West Australian, Thormanby, Blair Atty, Gladstone, Mr. Simon and Oranville.
John Forster, one of the most successful trainers in the world, says Taddington, Virago, West Australian, Fisherman, Gladstone, Sir Roderic, Isomony, Robert the Devil, St.

Simon and Foxhall were the best of the century.

THE Hon. Francis Lawley, a well-known turf literateur, includes Foxhall among the ten best which he has ever seen. So does Mr.
James Smith, owner of Rosberry, winner of the Oaks and the Cambridgeshire; so, of course, does Wm. Day, who also names Plin-tostock, Bay Middleton, Mendocino, Priam, Blue Gown, Touchstone, Surplice, West Australian and Crucifix, as the best he ever saw.
John Nightingall includes Foxhall in the best he ever saw. T. Jennings, Jr., includes Vernon (by Mortimer) in the best he ever saw.
John Dawson names absolutely the best horse he ever saw as Prince Charlie. All are more or less influenced by their close connection with the best horses they name, yet, for the benefit of posterity, their opinions may be well worth preserving.

LAWYERS in the Senate.
From the Denver Tribune-Republican.

The Senate is composed of seventy-six members. More than sixty of them are attorneys, agents, officers of railroad, telegraph, and other monopolies. They are there because they are attorneys, agents or officers, and can be counted upon to protect these corporations.

From the New York World.

Senator Beck's bill making it a penal offense for a member of Congress to act in any way as attorney or agent for a land-grant railroad will, if adopted, shut off a source of emolument from quite a number of individuals who are now engaged in the work of legislating for the country. The originator of the bill is in a situation to know the influence which the acceptance of retainers by Congressional lawyers has upon law-making. It is impossible to tell what these fees pay for. They are ostensibly for services in court, but a Senator or Representative, to put the case mildly, is much more likely to vote in favor of a corporation he is connected with than against it, and some of his fee is almost necessarily a tribute to his political power.

There is an element of bribery here which Senator Beck is in favor of having called by its right name and subjected to the usual risks.
The bill ought to have become a law long ago.
Whatever good there may be in it is not only needed in the settlement of the land-grant business, but in the action to be taken on the Pacific Railroad debt extension.

A British Democrat.
Lauchlin interviewed.

"Look forward to the democracy democratizing this country; our cry should be,
'Down with privilege and the privileged class.' I never read a political document that gave me more pleasure than the last letter of Mr. Gladstone to his constituents. It ought to be framed and hung up in the room of every Radical.
"I am not a socialist; I am an equalizer, so far as the law is concerned. I could have been a star fighter, and I would have every religious sect on equal terms. An hereditary Legislature is an abomination to me; so is a clergyman who is supported from the funds belonging to the entire community. I would do away with the perpetuation of large families from generation to generation by obliging every one to cut up his fortune upon the death among his children. Taxes should be raised from those best able to bear the burden; but I won't enter just now into my political creed on that question."

Estimating the President's Wealth.
Washington Dispatch to the Cleveland Leader.

I take it for granted that Miss Folsom loves President Cleveland very much. I understand that she is infatuated with him and that Cleveland, on the other hand, is thoroughly wrapped up in his love for her. If this is so, his life, after the White House experience, is over. He will probably be a happy old man.
Cleveland is said to be worth between $100,000 and $200,000. He ought to save enough to make it $200,000 by the time his Presidential term expires. Mrs. Cleveland will have at least $50,000 from her grandfather's estate, and this will make $250,000. The income from this will make $10,000 a year. He is already $10,000 a year to live upon. He will probably live his country seat near Washington and will spend much of the time here, where, with Mrs. Cleveland, he can hold a sort of post-presidential court, while the Republicans have the reins of the Government.

Won't Let Jeff Hurt Them.
From the Macon Telegraph.

Hello, there! Hello, friends of the Grand Army of the Republic, who who scented the bath of off and shouted he, he, he, you jumped the bounty; you pensioners and politicals, take your heads from under the cover.
We will not let Jeff Davis hurt you. He is armed with a word made of white roses, but he will not stick you. Come out from under the political wood-pile and walk right up and draw your pensions. Don't be afraid.
Come out; the boys shall not "pop a cap."
You can stop your ears while we explode the old devil. The Confederate yell may be sore to fellows of weak nerves, but it is don't cost the government a cent.

The Maxwell Trial.
From the Kansas City Times.

The testimony was, in fact, meager for the defense, and the amount of evidence against Maxwell overwhelming. Even the points introduced by his lawyers were turned against him, and nothing seemed to favor him, except the general course of public regard and one unfavorable act on the part of the state. We refer to the confession obtained from the prisoner by the detective who forewarned himself.
It is hardly a question for discussion as to whether justice requires her courts to stoop to such dishonorable means. The better nature case with a jury. The better nature revolts at its iniquitous course, and hence there is a corresponding sympathy.

Home.
Two birds within one nest;
Two hearts within one breast;
Two souls within one fair, Firm league of love and prayer, Together bound for aye, together blest.

An ear that waits to catch A hand upon the latch;
A step that hastens its sweet rest to win;
A world of care without,
A world of strife shut out, A world of love shut in.

she has erected this theater.

In Turkey a man cannot have more than four wives, and if the fifth wife be cannot bring a second son under the same roof. As a result a man cannot usually have more than one wife unless he is wealthy enough to keep up separate establishments for each. In Constantinople one wife is the general rule.

THE election of women to the position of Poor Law Guardians is a practice increasing in popularity in England. At the recent elections the number of ladies who had served on the boards was increased, and many new ones added to the ranks of the feminine office-holders. In all, including nine ladies who are Poor Law Guardians in Edinburgh, forty-seven women are filling that important position.

THE METROPOLITAN PRESS.
What the Editors of the New York Journals Are Saying This Morning.

By Telegram to the POST-DISPATCH.
New York, June 8.—The World says: "Mr.
Gladstone has been defeated. His home rule bill was rejected on its second reading in the House of Commons last night by a vote of 341 to 211, or a majority of thirty against the Government. This result was not unexpected.
Mr. Gladstone's most faithful henchmen had given up hope some days ago, though there was always a lingering belief that the grand old man would or could, by some oratorical necro-mancy, manage to save himself at the last moment. But the hope, proved in vain. Mr.
Gladstone, undaunted, by repeated concessions to the demands of the Radicals, was defeated. At the last moment he was willing to give up everything for the sake of a stumpe affirmation of the principles of home rule contained in the bill, but even this was denied him. The only satisfaction he can derive, it is said, is in the knowledge that he has done his duty, and that the seed grain he has sown will take root and spring up and ripen in time, even though it may be a long time. He has the consolation at least of having led a most effective attack on British insular prejudices and unimpaired self-esteem."

THE SUN.
The Sun says: "The future historian will say that the moral question of the Radicals Gladstone's proposition was triumphantly resolved in favor of Ireland when a change of only sixteen votes was needed to rescind the Parliament at Dublin. There remains the practical question: How will the Premier deal with the result? The Premier should resign, a dissolution must be invoked by his successor, for a temporary relief of the elements of the slight adverse majority render the formation of a stable government impossible. The Queen, whose sympathies with the resistance to home rule have been betrayed into a policy that the Irish Parliament of the Crown may be emboldened by last night's vote to reject the counsel of her defeated Minister, and refuse to dissolve Parliament, and the experiment of a coalition Cabinet will be from such an experiment, which will be short and unimpaired self-esteem."

THE TRIBUNE says: "The most remarkable utterance of the closing debate was Mr. Par-nell's declaration that the Irish Parliament unlike Gladstone's, which had no coordinate power, would be 'wholly subordinate to the Crown.' This speech, admirable in its tone and conservative in tone, his sarcasms at the expense of the Whig and Radical responsible for Ireland's present position, Mr. Parnell's, being particularly effective.
Mr. Parnell's and Mr. Gladstone's appeal for a majority for the second reading proved unable, but their cooperation in this closing debate is an earnest of the future."

MANNING'S SUCCESSOR.
Probability that ex-Senator Davis of West Virginia will be appointed.
By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—Senator Kennard of West Virginia said last night to the Post-Dispatch correspondent that he had heard nothing of the proposed appointment of ex-Senator Davis of West Virginia to the Secretaryship of the Treasury. "I am not aware that Mr. Davis would accept it if it were tendered him, though I think the President would find in Mr. Davis a good man for the position, and I would be glad to see him make the appointment, but my honest conviction is that he will not accept it." Mr. Davis has not given the subject a thought at all. The President, I believe, is sincere in thinking that Mr. Davis is a man of high character and ability, and that he would be a valuable addition to the staff of the Treasury.

MISTAKEN FOR BURGLARS.
The Privacy of a Young Married Couple Rudely Intruded Upon by a Policeman.
A young couple who were married last night were the victims of a most unfortunate mistake. The young people, whose names it would hardly be proper to state, had been going together for some time, and last night their courtship terminated by their union in the holy bonds of matrimony. During the day a friend of the bride who had been inspecting the house the groom had fitted up for the reception of the object of his affections, on Twenty-second street, near Cass avenue, called on the lady next door and left the key of the place with her, requesting that she should permit one of her friends to enter the young couple returned, as some thief might get in the place. About midnight the woman next door heard a noise in the house and called her husband's attention to it. They immediately arrived at the conclusion that some one was burglarizing the place, and hastily dressing themselves the husband went out, and by his cries attracted the attention of two men who were passing. He informed them that burglars were in a house that had been furnished for the wedding, and that he was a policeman. The two men, who were actually burglars, were startled by the policeman's cries, and fled. The policeman, who was actually a burglar, was arrested by the police.

LOCAL NEWS.
The Academy of Science met last evening. Dr. Ait read a paper which was generally discussed.
Owen McAdams, a laborer, while at work in the building on Broadway and Pine about 10 o'clock last evening fell into the cellar and was badly injured.
About 10 o'clock last evening Dr. Farrar's stable, at the rear of 229 Carr street, took fire, but fortunately the blaze was discovered in time. Two men were seen running away from the place, and the fire is alleged to have been caused by an incendiary.
An old porch in the rear of 1123 North Third street fell to the ground last evening. The porch was held up by a single post, and the weight of the structure caused it to collapse. The fire was extinguished by the fire department.

EAST ST. LOUIS.
An Important Meeting of the City Council—Accident Near the Relay-Notes.
Thomas Nolan, a bridge employee, met with a serious accident this morning. He was one of a squad of men who are at present engaged in repairing the tracks on the west side of the Relay Depot, and was tightening a fish-plate, when one of the bridge engines came along at almost full speed, and the top of the pilot struck him in the head. He was knocked several feet, and when picked up had a terrible gash, about three inches long, in his head. He was taken to the Relay Reading-rooms and Dr. Fairbrother summoned. His wounds were sewed up, and are not regarded as fatal.
On Sunday night Alex Belleville and his wife were arrested for disturbing the peace. Belleville was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace on Sunday last and discharged.
The Ways and Means Committee of the School Board met last evening. The committee was organized by the school board, and its purpose is to examine the plans submitted for the new school building. The committee is composed of the following members: Mr. W. D. Griswold, President of the Gas Company, was present. He stated that he was desirous of seeing a statement in regard to the present amount of money in the gas fund and the amount of the interest on the bonds. The committee is also interested in the plan to secure his money for street lighting from month to month. THE MULLANPHY BOARD.
Five Vacancies in That Body to be Filled To-Night.
An important matter which will come before the Council at their meeting this evening is the selection of five members to fill vacancies in the Mullanphy Board, three of which are in the Ninth Congressional District and two in the Eighth. The candidates in the field are numerous, and quite a lively canvass has been made by several members of the Council in behalf of their men. The principal contest lies in the Eighth District between Andy Brown and E. J. O'Connor, Councilman Pat O'Mally championing the former, and statesman Ed Devoy the latter. In the Ninth, Patrick Degan, the presence in Catholic societies, McCormick has numerous friends who would like to see him chosen, as it is felt that he would fill the position most acceptably. The other candidates are Messrs. Clements, Clemen, Corridy, Jim McGarrigan, A. J. Garaghty, Jos. F. Stern, John P. Miller and Mr. Cummings candidate. Mr. Meyer.

HOLDEN, June 8.—Rev. J. G. White of Stanford, Kansas, is lecturing against the Roman Catholic Church to the people. The lecturer was arrested on his way to the hall. The assault was made by a mob of Catholics.

DAVIS AND ELKINS TALK.
By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.
DEER PARK, Md., June 7.—The suggestion that ex-Senator Henry J. Davis may be nominated to succeed Mr. Manning as Secretary of the Treasury has excited considerable comment among the cottagers here. Gossip has it that Mr. Davis has taken advantage of the President's presence to press his attentions upon him. It is said, Mr. Davis was instrumental in inducing Mr. Cleveland to come to Deer Park, with the promise of solitude and the constant company of the President. Mr. Davis has been here for some time, and has been very successful in his efforts to gain the President's confidence. CHILDREN'S $2.50 PLATED CASUALTY SUITS at $1.25 in the great clothing reduction sale, for ten days, at the GLOBE, 705 to 715 Franklin avenue.

CHICAGO, June 8.—The regular Monday night meeting of the City Council was a very stormy one, the session lasting until nearly 1 o'clock in the morning. The pending measure was the ordinance granting the North Chicago City Railway Company the right to change its horse-car lines into a cable system. The fight lasted five hours, and the debate on both sides was very heated. The ordinance was finally adopted by a vote of 34 to 15. An ordinance giving the same company the right of way through the LaSalle street tunnel was referred to a committee. During the earlier part of the session the ordinance providing for the employment of fifty additional policemen was passed over the Mayor's veto without discussion. The vote stood 34 for to 20 against.

THE ST. LOUIS SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS held the closing exercises of the year at Memorial Hall last evening. The exercises were held in the hall of the school, and were attended by a large number of guests. The exercises were held in the hall of the school, and were attended by a large number of guests.

THE QUIET LITTLE BURG OF WEBSTER GROVES was startled the other night by a bold and audacious robbery. Four of its younger citizens, Harry Barrow, Ben Nichols, Metville Metcalf and Elwood Lippincott, were out for a carriage ride and, as is the custom on such occasions, were blending their voices in melodious harmony, regarding the enraptured citizens along their route with choice selections from such rare and delightful old songs as "Old Uncle Ned," "My Old Kentucky Home," etc., etc. They soon reached the darkest road that leads from Webster to the city. It was at this point that the robbery took place. The robbers, who were armed with pistols, demanded the money and jewelry of the four young men. The young men, who were unarmed, complied with the demands of the robbers. The robbers then fled with the money and jewelry.
